

The chart displays the percentage of respondents who believe that the current government is responsible for the economic crisis. The chart is divided into two main sections: 'Current government' (top) and 'Previous governments' (bottom). The 'Current government' section shows a high percentage of respondents (around 80%) who believe the current government is responsible. The 'Previous governments' section shows a lower percentage of respondents (around 20%) who believe previous governments are responsible. The chart uses a color scale from light blue to dark blue to represent the percentage of respondents.
